GUIDELINES

Policy Title:	Institute for Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies Non-Tenure Track Faculty Review and Promotion Guidelines
Version:	1
Institute Approval:	08/26/2015
College Approval:	04/29/2014
Effective:	08/26/2015

1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 Non-tenure track (NTT) faculty housed in the Institute for Women’s, Gender, and 3 Sexuality Studies (WGSS) are vital components of our faculty. The policies and 4 procedures related to the review and promotion of faculty in non-tenure track ranks are 5 outlined in this document (Institute guidelines), the College of Arts and Sciences
6 Promotion Manual for Non-Tenure Track Faculty (college manual), and the Georgia 7 State University Promotion Manual for Non-Tenure Track Faculty (university manual).
8 Whereas the university and college NTT manuals provide general statements of the 9 expected quality and significance of NTT faculty accomplishments, this document 10 identifies some of the concrete forms these achievements should take. In particular, this 11 document articulates the Institute’s criteria for the various rankings in the areas of 12 instruction and service that candidates for promotion might receive. Candidates should 13 consult the college and university manuals (which take precedence over this document) 14 for matters of process and procedure, dossier requirements, and time-in-rank policies 15 that govern eligibility for promotion consideration.

16 The Institute for Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies employs regular, full-time NTT
17 faculty in the lecturer track. The ranks within the lecturer track include the following 18 (listed from most junior to most senior): Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, and Principal Senior 19 Lecturer. The general duties for lecturer track faculty are described in the college 20 manual.

21 II. INSTITUTE REVIEW PROCESS FOR PROMOTION TO SENIOR LECTURER AND 22 PRINCIPAL SENIOR LECTURER

23 A. Process Overview

24 The primary stages of the Institute-level NTT faculty promotion review process are as 25 follows:

- 26 1. Following notification of eligibility from the Dean’s Office, the candidate standing for 27 promotion will submit the required review materials to the Institute Director as 28 outlined in the college manual.
- 29 2. The Institute Director forwards the candidate’s materials to the Institute promotion 30 review committee (or subcommittee for initial review, but the final recommendation 31 must be made by the committee as a whole).
- 32 3. The Institute promotion review committee submits its recommendation, including 33 any minority reports, to the Institute Director. Members of the committee must not 34 be identified to the candidate; therefore, the signatures must appear on a separate 35 page so that they can be removed when the candidate is provided with his or her 36 copy of the committee’s report(s). The Institute Director will provide a copy of the 37 Institute committee’s report, including any minority reports, to the candidate with a 38 notification that the candidate has the option to respond directly to the Institute 39 Director within three business days.

40 4. The Institute Director submits an independent recommendation along with the 41 recommendation of the Institute review committee, including any minority reports 42 and any responses from the candidate, to the Dean's Office. A copy of the Institute 43 Director's report will be provided to the candidate with a notification that the 44 candidate has the option to respond to the Dean's Office within three business days.
45 The Dean's Office will provide to the Institute Director a copy of any response from 46 the candidate to the Institute Director's report.

47 See sections III and IV in the college manual for information on the evaluation processes 48 at the college and university levels.

49 B. Composition of Institute Non-Tenure Track Promotion Review Committee

50 The Institute Non-Tenure Track Promotion Review Committee consists of tenured WGSS 51 faculty and NTT faculty in the Institute of a rank equal to or above that sought by the 52 candidate (Senior Lecturer, Principal Senior Lecturer), except the Director of the 53 Institute and any members of the Institute serving in a position that will review the 54 candidate's promotion application at the college or university levels. According to the 55 college manual, units may operate through a system of subcommittees that initially 56 review and evaluate each candidate's credentials. All final recommendations must be 57 made by the committee of the whole. The committee of the whole must meet to discuss 58 and vote on its final recommendation. The letter from the departmental committee 59 must be signed by the committee chair and all committee members who agree with the 60 recommendation. Committee members who do not sign this recommendation must 61 provide a separate letter (minority report) indicating their recommendation and 62 supporting rationale. Members of the committee must not be identified to the 63 candidate; therefore, the signatures must appear on a separate page so that they can be 64 removed when the candidate is provided with his or her copy of the committee's 65 report(s).

66 Faculty of equal or lower rank to the candidate's current rank may not vote on the final 67 recommendation of the committee of the whole. In consultation with the Institute 68 Director, the Dean will augment the Institute promotion review committee with NTT 69 members from other units when the Institute does not have a sufficient number of 70 faculty to constitute a committee of at least three members, with at least one being 71 tenured and one being NTT faculty.

72 III. LECTURER REVIEWS

73 A. General Considerations

74 There are five types of structured reviews for faculty on the lecturer track: 1) annual 75 review leading to re-appointment, 2) third-year review, 3) fifth-year review with 76 promotion to Senior Lecturer, 4) subsequent review with promotion to Principal Senior 77 Lecturer (the timing for which is defined in the college manual), and 5) post-promotion 78 cumulative review (five-year structured review). In these reviews, the primary 79 considerations are contributions in instruction and service, with consideration given to 80 contributions in the area of professional development bearing on the candidate's 81 knowledge as it relates to pedagogical practice. This document defines ratings that are 82 used in all of the reviews listed above; however, the ratings in the body of the document 83 are defined in the context of Institute expectations specific to candidates being 84 considered for promotion to Senior Lecturer or Principal Senior Lecturer.

85 B. Scope of Evaluations

86 1. Evaluation of Teaching

87 As stated in the college manual, evaluation of teaching effectiveness will use the criteria 88 of the college's policy (http://www2cas.gsu.edu/docs/as/teaching\_effectiveness.pdf).
89 Evaluators will assess the teaching effectiveness of lecturers as it relates to their core 90 mission of engaging undergraduate learning in survey classes fulfilling general education 91 requirements. Additionally, if lecturers have primarily been assigned an alternate set of 92 teaching and administrative duties, then their assessment will reflect criteria suitable to 93 their assigned role in the Institute.

94 As a general rule, evaluators will consider in their assessments of teaching effectiveness 95 the following criteria:

96 a. Quality of course content: The quality of course content will be evaluated through 97 review of syllabi, exam questions, writing assignments, in-class exercises, readings, and 98 other elements integrated into the learning environment created by the candidate for 99 promotion. Syllabi should be reviewed for conformity with university guidelines. Exam 100 questions should require students to engage material that is appropriate for the course
101 level and catalog description. Writing assignments should develop the students' ability 102 to work with primary and secondary sources in crafting coherent arguments that 103 demonstrate critical thinking. Course materials should also be assessed for their 104 appropriateness in relation to the current state of knowledge in the field. Lecturers may 105 provide additional materials, such as customized texts, handouts, software, and other 106 course elements that reflect the faculty member's efforts to foster student engagement 107 and learning. In particular, credit is given to faculty whose courses are structured in 108 ways that cultivate curiosity, creativity, and critical acumen in their students. Courses 109 that connect students with other university programs and resources and that take 110 advantage of opportunities created by our campus location in Atlanta will also be 111 viewed as evidence of successful instruction. Particularly in lower-level classes, the 112 Institute encourages faculty to design courses that enable students to engage course 113 materials and be evaluated in a variety of ways, so as to allow faculty to identify 114 students who are struggling and to provide those students with an opportunity to 115 improve their performance as the semester unfolds. The Institute recognizes that 116 lecturers might use a variety of methods. Candidates evaluated as meeting or exceeding 117 promotion expectations, however, demonstrate a sustained interest in encouraging 118 student interest in the material and designing assessments that foster the mastery of 119 significant skills and concepts.

120 b. Development of new courses or development of new teaching resources that 121 meaningfully improve existing courses: Evaluations will consider the effective 122 development and execution of new courses, significant involvement in the development 123 of new teaching programs, and the use of new teaching techniques and practices, if 124 these are part of the responsibilities of the faculty member. The design of courses with a 125 travel component and the subsequent successful recruitment of students to study 126 abroad or domestic field schools is another laudable potential achievement. The 127 Institute values efforts to develop new courses and resources, particularly those that 128 positively affect significant numbers of students or sufficiently impact individual 129 students so as to result in significant achievements such as the presentation or 130 publication of undergraduate and/or graduate research.

131 c. Student evaluations: The review of candidates' materials will include overall student 132 evaluation scores, which are useful indicators of student perceptions of instruction.
133 Evaluation scores, which the Institute will not rely upon exclusively when determining 134 minimum qualifications for ratings, will be considered in the context of the normal 135 range of scores for specific courses and for similar level courses (i.e., 1000, 2000, etc.)
136 within the Institute. The review will also consider other important variables such as class 137 size, whether the course is required or an elective, the response rate on the evaluations, 138 and number of students enrolled in the course. In addition to average scores, the 139 Institute will also be attentive to mean and median scores and to the impact of any 140 outlying scores on averages. Qualitative evidence offered by the students' written 141 comments on the student evaluation forms will receive serious attention from the 142 Institute as a meaningful supplement to the quantitative data from the evaluation
143 instruments. In light of these contextual elements, successful candidates for promotion 144 normally earn consistently strong evaluations and high scores, as defined below.

145 d. Direction of students: The Institute will assess the extent and quality of faculty 146 efforts in the direction of student projects and academic activities at GSU, such as 147 independent studies, honors theses, MA thesis committees, student research or 148 creative work presented at GSURC, as well as individual student engagement in 149 academic projects or programs hosted by other institutions or communities. Such 150 efforts might also include faculty time spent advising students, offering additional 151 tutoring and mentoring of students who are at risk for underperforming in their 152 Women's, Gender, and Sexuality classes and time spent offering additional guidance to 153 students who are pursuing extracurricular research projects connected to their 154 Women's, Gender, and Sexuality coursework. Faculty members' willingness to write 155 letters of recommendation for undergraduate and graduate students might also be 156 viewed as evidence of significant effort in this category of instructional effectiveness.

157 e. Development of new skills: The Institute encourages faculty to continue to develop 158 skills and to master new software, languages, and technology in order to improve 159 teaching. Candidates evaluated as meeting or exceeding expectations for promotion 160 might exhibit an ongoing willingness to adopt new practices in the classroom. Faculty

161 who undergo formal training to gain new certifications and competencies may present 162 such achievements to the Institute as evidence of their commitment to stay abreast of 163 current research in feminist and/or critical pedagogies. The Institute recognizes that 164 new skills need not involve technology; for example, the incorporation of more 165 interactive classroom exercises geared toward fostering critical conversation and writing 166 might contribute to a faculty member's assessment as excellent in teaching (as defined 167 in the Appendix).

168 2. Evaluation of Service

169 As stated in the college manual, contributions in the area of service include strong 170 instructional service; contributions to the Institute, college, or university; professional 171 service; and community and public service. Service for lecturers varies depending on 172 the individual's core mission as defined by the Institute, but it is generally at the 173 Institute or college level. Contributions to service in the Institute for Women's, Gender, 174 and Sexuality Studies typically fall into the following categories: assigned service roles, 175 such as administrative roles or other service duties that are ongoing assignments; 176 instructional service, such as developing teaching materials and curricula, organizing or 177 presenting seminars on teaching methodology, or supervising or mentoring faculty and 178 graduate teaching assistants; assistance to colleagues, such as guest-lecturing, 179 consulting about educational and teaching issues, and providing advice about or reviews 180 of manuscripts or grant applications; contributions to the Institute, college, and 181 university, such as student advisement and mentoring, advising of student groups, 182 memberships on Institute/college/university committees, and development of teaching 183 and service programs; professional service (if appropriate), such as memberships on 184 professional societies and advisory boards; community and public service (if 185 appropriate), such as giving lectures, speeches, presentations, performances, short 186 courses, and assistance to government agencies.

187 The Institute's review of candidates' records in service will consider the wide variety of 188 tasks that the Institute Director might assign to particular faculty members. Candidates 189 should document any arrangements made upon or after their initial appointment for 190 them to take on special administrative duties or unusually heavy service loads. The 191 degree to which assigned service responsibilities are made available to the candidate 192 will also be part of the consideration of their service record.

193

194 3. Additional Considerations

195 Other factors and contributions that may be considered as part of the lecturer review 196 include the following:

197 Professional Development Contributions:

198 It is expected that lecturers will manifest in their classes a rich intellectual background
199 and a familiarity with current trends and methods in the discipline. Though not required 200 for promotion, one way of achieving such a proficiency is through a program of scholarly 201 or creative activities. Other ways include attending or participating in panels at 202 professional conferences, and remaining current on scholarship and readings in the 203 field.

204 Since a lecturer's professional development is evaluated as a secondary element to the 205 overall record in instruction and service, the scholarly or creative work included in 206 candidates' dossiers should be clearly related to their fields of instruction. The specific 207 forms of professional development that a lecturer may produce are identical to those 208 described in the Institute promotion and tenure guidelines for tenure track faculty:
209 publications, editorial work, book reviews, hypertext projects, lectures, involvement 210 with academic conferences, awards and grants, and so forth. Scholarship focused on 211 pedagogy and curriculum should be included in the Instruction section of the dossier 212 rather than under a Professional Development section.

213 Role within the Institute:

214 Since needs of the Institute often change, the role of the Lecturer also may change. For 215 example, if student enrollments shift, the college or Institute may need to offer more 216 sections of a course, or fewer. The promotion review will include the role of the Lecturer 217 within the context of the mission of the Institute and the ability of the Lecturer to fulfill 218 the changing needs of the Institute.

219 C. Criteria for Promotion

220 As stated in the college manual, candidates will be evaluated based on the evidence 221 submitted as having met or not met the standards for promotion in teaching and service 222 relative to the evaluative terms outstanding, excellent, very good, good, fair, and poor.
223 The single measure for achieving the standard for promotion in each category for each 224 rank is defined in this section. The complete scale of evaluative terms that may be 225 referenced in evaluations is included as an appendix to this document.

226 1. Promotion from Lecturer to Senior Lecturer

227 For promotion to the rank of Senior Lecturer, candidates must demonstrate a level of 228 competence and effectiveness in teaching that is evaluated as at least excellent, 229 according to the college manual. Additionally, candidates must provide a level of 230 assigned service to the Institute, college, university, and/or to the professional and 231 practice community that is evaluated as at least very good, which meets the university 232 standard for promotion to Senior Lecturer.

233 a. Instruction

234 To meet the standard in instruction for promotion to the rank of Senior Lecturer with a 235 rating of excellent, candidates' records show consistently high levels of achievement in 236 the five categories for assessing teaching detailed in Section III.B.1 above. Their course 237 materials illustrates a trajectory of accomplished teaching and demonstrates creative 238 and reflective pedagogy. Normally, they earn scores on student evaluations that fall in 239 the mid- 4-out-of-5 range or higher, or in the 4-out-of-5 range as appropriate to the 240 course size and level. Additionally, they demonstrate a track record of developing new

241 courses or protocols for existing courses and/or successfully mentoring undergraduate 242 or graduate students.

243 b. Service

244 To meet the standard in service for promotion to the rank of Senior Lecturer with a 245 rating of very good, successful candidates diligently and effectively fulfill their assigned 246 roles. Rather than merely attending committee meetings or holding the requisite 247 advisement sessions, they actively participate, contributing concretely to the work of 248 the committees and to the overall goals and mission of the Institute.

249 2. Promotion from Senior Lecturer to Principal Senior Lecturer

250 For promotion to the rank of Principal Senior Lecturer, candidates must demonstrate a 251 sustained level of competence and effectiveness in teaching that is evaluated as 252 excellent, according to the college manual. Additionally, candidates must provide a level 253 of assigned service to the Institute, college, university, and/or to the professional and 254 practice community that is evaluated as excellent, which meets the university standard 255 for promotion to Principal Senior Lecturer. Successful candidates for promotion to 256 Principal Senior Lecturer will demonstrate continued growth in the time period since the 257 last promotion. This growth might be in the area of instruction or service or both. It 258 might be growth resulting in a higher ranking in one of these areas, but this need not 259 necessarily be the case so long as the candidate has made improvements in discrete 260 areas of their teaching or has mastered new skills or has made new contributions in 261 instruction or service.

262 a. Instruction

263 To meet the standard in instruction for promotion to Principal Senior Lecturer with a 264 rating of excellent, candidates show consistently high levels of achievement in the five 265 categories for assessing instruction detailed in Section III.B.1 above. Their course 266 materials illustrate a long-term trajectory of accomplished teaching that demonstrates a 267 creative and reflective pedagogy. Their student evaluations are consistently strong, 268 normally earning scores that fall in the mid- to upper 4-out-of-5 range. They 269 demonstrate a sustained track record of successfully mentoring undergraduate and/or 270 graduate students, as well as developing new courses or protocols for existing courses.
271 In addition to continued growth in the areas of teaching described above, the 272 candidate's growth as an instructor should also extend into areas beyond those 273 normally associated with one's teaching responsibilities at GSU. For example, candidates 274 might engage in one or more of the following activities: production of a publication 275 suitable for use in the kinds of classes that the faculty member teaches; production of 276 an article or other publication on pedagogy; successful pursuit of internal and/or 277 external funding for pedagogical initiatives; teaching awards/recognitions; student 278 awards or other accomplishments of mentored students. Candidates whose record of 279 achievement does not self-evidently conform to this standard should document and 280 explain how their record corresponds to a similar level of significance and achievement.

281 b. Service

282 Candidates will be judged as meeting the standard in service for promotion to Principal 283 Senior Lecturer with a rating of excellent if they have diligently and highly effectively 284 carried out assigned responsibilities and contributed significantly to the mission of the 285 Institute over a sustained period. The excellent candidate at this level normally exhibits 286 a track record of providing assistance to Institute advising efforts or to graduate 287 teaching assistants and/or other non-tenure track instructors. In addition to continued 288 growth in the areas of service described above, the candidate's growth in service should 289 take one or more of the following forms: highly effective service as an Institute program 290 director or in a role with a similar level of responsibility; recognition as a campus leader; 291 significant service to the profession or community.

292 D. Other Lecturer Reviews

293 The annual, third-year, promotion, and post-promotion structured reviews are all 294 distinct from one another. Because these different evaluations cover different time 295 periods and may involve different evaluating bodies, the results of these reviews may 296 diverge. Therefore, a reliable inference cannot necessarily be made from the 297 conclusions of one of the reviews to those of the others.

298

299 1. Annual Review of Lecturers

300 Along with tenure track and other non-tenure track faculty, all lecture-track faculty are 301 evaluated on an annual basis. The evaluation will be based on the materials supplied by 302 the faculty member, including updated CV, annual report covering the prior calendar 303 year, teaching portfolio, and any other appropriate materials. In consultation with the 304 Institute executive committee, the Institute Director will evaluate the lecturer track 305 faculty member's service and instruction and service using the criteria described in the 306 Appendix.

307 2. Third-Year Review of Lecturers

308 The third-year review for lecturers is designed to assess the faculty member's 309 effectiveness and progress toward promotion to Senior Lecturer. An Institute review 310 committee composed of at least three faculty, which will include both tenured faculty 311 and principal senior lecturers or senior lecturers, will prepare an evaluation of the 312 Lecturer's record. The committee is elected by the full faculty (core and affiliate) of the 313 Institute. The Institute Director will provide an independent assessment before 314 forwarding both evaluations to the Dean's Office for further evaluation of the record.
315 The third-year review will employ the terms of the six-point scale used for promotion 316 reviews. However, the spirit of the third-year review is different from that of the 317 promotion review; it is meant to review the Lecturer's achievements to date and 318 provide mentoring regarding possible deficiencies that should be addressed before the 319 fifth-year promotion review.

320 3. Post-Promotion Review of Senior Lecturers and Principal Senior Lecturers

321 The post-promotion five-year structured review is designed to ensure that senior 322 lecturers and principal senior lecturers remain effective and current in their pedagogy 323 and accomplished in their service profiles. The review will cover the faculty member's 324 instruction and service records over the five years since promotion and will be based on 325 the criteria listed in the Appendix. Faculty under review will present their dossiers (as 326 described in the college manual) for evaluation by an elected committee of at least 327 three WGSS faculty who are either tenured or at the rank of principal senior lecturer 328 (with representation from each when the Institute has an available principal senior 329 lecturer within its ranks). The Institute committee is elected by the full faculty (core and 330 affiliate) of the Institute. The department chair will provide an independent assessment 331 and will then pass on both evaluations to the Dean's Office for response.

332 APPENDIX: Complete Ratings Scale for Evaluations of Lecturer-Track Faculty to be used
333 in Annual, Third-Year, Promotion, and Post-Promotion Cumulative Reviews

334

335 A. Teaching

336

337 Poor: Candidates judged to be poor in instruction display an unacceptable record of 338 teaching as evidenced through student evaluations, ineffective course materials, and 339 little to no student mentoring.

340

341 Fair: Candidates judged to be fair in instruction display a minimally acceptable record of 342 teaching as evidenced through student evaluations, ineffective pedagogical techniques, 343 and only occasional student mentoring.

344

345 Good: Candidates judged to be good in instruction manifest a teaching performance 346 that barely exceeds adequate, as evidenced through student evaluations, course 347 materials that fail to demonstrate competent pedagogical skill, and generally 348 satisfactory but limited effort as a mentor of students.

349

350 Very Good: Candidates judged to be very good in instruction are competent instructors 351 whose supporting material includes evidence not only of diligent preparation and 352 instruction but also of some mentoring of students, thoughtful and reflective pedagogy, 353 and a commitment to the instructional mission of the Institute. Class assignments are 354 creative and methodologically varied and pedagogically appropriate, resulting in 355 proficient student learning. While these candidates are effective instructors, their 356 teaching records may lack the level and extent of involvement in the supervision of 357 individual student work that is typically expected for a rating of excellent, as described 358 below, and/or the candidate's student evaluations show inconsistencies or often fall 359 short of Institute expectations.

360

361 Excellent (Required for Promotion to Senior Lecturer): Candidates judged to be excellent 362 instructors show consistently high levels of achievement in the five categories for 363 assessing teaching detailed in Section III.B.1. These candidates' course materials 364 illustrate a trajectory of accomplished teaching that demonstrates a creative and 365 reflective pedagogy that may include a substantial variety of activities related to 366 instruction. Normally, these candidates' student evaluation scores fall in the mid- 4-out-367 of-5 range or higher. Additionally, they demonstrate a track record of developing new 368 courses or protocols for existing courses and/or successfully mentoring undergraduate 369 or graduate students.

370

371 Excellent (Required for Promotion to Principal Senior Lecturer): In addition to the stated 372 expectations for a rating of excellent in teaching above, successful candidates for 373 promotion to the rank of Principal Senior Lecturer will demonstrate growth as an 374 instructor that also extends into areas beyond those normally associated with one's 375 teaching responsibilities at GSU. For example, candidates might engage in one or more 376 of the following activities: production of a publication suitable for use in the kinds of 377 classes that the faculty member teaches; production of an article or other publication on 378 pedagogy; successful pursuit of internal and/or external funding for pedagogical 379 initiatives; teaching awards/recognitions; student awards or other accomplishments of 380 mentored students.

381

382 Outstanding (Promotion to Senior Lecturer): Candidates judged to be outstanding in 383 instruction manifest an impact on students that is of the highest level. In excess of the 384 expectations for a rating of excellent in teaching appropriate to their rank, as described 385 above, outstanding instructors command a mastery of instruction in their area as 386 evidenced by at least one of the following: successful pursuit of external funding for 387 pedagogical initiatives; teaching awards/recognitions; student awards or other 388 accomplishments of mentored students.

389 Outstanding (Promotion to Principal Senior Lecturer): In addition to the stated 390 expectations for a rating of outstanding in teaching above, candidates for promotion to 391 the rank of Principal Senior Lecturer will be evaluated as outstanding if they have 392 achieved more than one of the following: production of a publication suitable for use in 393 the kinds of classes that the faculty member teaches; production of an article or other 394 publication on pedagogy; successful pursuit of internal and/or external funding for 395 pedagogical initiatives; teaching awards/recognitions; student awards or other 396 accomplishments of mentored students.

397 B. Service

398

399 Poor: Candidates judged to be poor in service do not fulfill assigned service obligations 400 and are not responsible citizens of the Institute.

401

402 Fair: Candidates judged to be fair in service ineffectively fulfill assigned service 403 obligations or are not responsible citizens of the Institute.

404

405 Good: Candidates judged to be good in service do not always effectively fulfill assigned 406 service obligations or are not consistently responsible citizens of the Institute.

407

408 Very Good: Candidates will be judged to be very good in service if they conscientiously 409 and effectively fulfill their assigned roles. Rather than merely attending committee 410 meetings or holding the requisite advisement sessions, such faculty actively participate 411 in a way that contributes concretely to the goals and mission of the Institute, 412 particularly in terms of the goal to achieve positive results for undergraduate and 413 graduate students.

414 Excellent: Candidates will be judged to be excellent in service if they have been diligent 415 and highly effective as they carried out assigned responsibilities and contributed 416 significantly to the goals and mission of the Institute over a sustained period. The 417 excellent candidate at this level normally exhibits a track record of providing assistance 418 to Institute advising efforts or to graduate teaching assistants and/or other non-tenure 419 track instructors. In addition to continued growth in the areas of service described 420 above, the candidate's growth in service should also take one or more of the following 421 forms: highly effective service as an Institute program director or in a role with a similar 422 level of responsibility; recognition as a campus leader; significant service to the 423 profession or community.

424
425 Outstanding: In excess of the stated expectations to achieve a rating of excellent in 426 service, candidates will be judged to be outstanding in service if they have not only 427 fulfilled their assigned responsibilities but also taken considerable personal initiative to 428 contribute concretely to the goals and mission of the Institute. Faculty members judged 429 to be outstanding in service will have been recognized by their peers, students, or 430 university administrators as having established a long track record of success in 431 improving campus life in measurable or noticeable ways. Highly effective service as an 432 Institute program director or in a role with a similar level of responsibility, as well as 433 extraordinary service to the profession or community, are also indications of 434 outstanding service.
