Areas A-E
Review core and other requirements in undergraduate catalog - catalog.gsu.edu

Areas F
If considering this major RELS 2001 will allow you to explore this option before making a decision.

Areas G
Take RELS 2710 – Survey of World Religions. This required class is an excellent preparation for the upper division courses.

Senior
Meet with your senior advisor in the college Office of Academic Assistance.
Meet with your senior advisor in the college Office of Academic Assistance.
Meet with your senior advisor in the college Office of Academic Assistance.

Take junior CTW course, RELS 3750 Theory and Method in Religious Studies.

Complete your major requirements and any minor or additional courses. Remember you must have at least 39 hours overall at the 3000/4000 level to graduate from Georgia State.

Take senior CTW course, RELS 4750 Seminar in Religious Studies.

Use connections made through internships to provide leads for after graduation employment.

Submit one of your papers to the Religious Studies Student Symposium.

Consider attending a national or regional AAR conference

Consider volunteering with a religious organization or with a project designed to foster religious tolerance and understanding.

Participate in the Religious Studies Forum Student Discussion Group.

Apply to the Peace Corp or for positions with relief agencies.

If interested in working abroad or with immigrant communities or refugees, take additional foreign language courses.

Discuss careers and graduate or professional study with the department advisor and Career Services.

If considering graduate or professional study, take the appropriate examination.

Areas A-E
Review core and other requirements in undergraduate catalog - catalog.gsu.edu

Areas F
If considering this major RELS 2001 will allow you to explore this option before making a decision.

Areas G
Take RELS 2710 – Survey of World Religions. This required class is an excellent preparation for the upper division courses.

Senior
Meet with your senior advisor in the college Office of Academic Assistance.
Meet with your senior advisor in the college Office of Academic Assistance.
Meet with your senior advisor in the college Office of Academic Assistance.

Take junior CTW course, RELS 3750 Theory and Method in Religious Studies.

Complete your major requirements and any minor or additional courses. Remember you must have at least 39 hours overall at the 3000/4000 level to graduate from Georgia State.

Take senior CTW course, RELS 4750 Seminar in Religious Studies.

Use connections made through internships to provide leads for after graduation employment.

Submit one of your papers to the Religious Studies Student Symposium.

Consider attending a national or regional AAR conference

Consider volunteering with a religious organization or with a project designed to foster religious tolerance and understanding.

Participate in the Religious Studies Forum Student Discussion Group.

Apply to the Peace Corp or for positions with relief agencies.

If interested in working abroad or with immigrant communities or refugees, take additional foreign language courses.

Discuss careers and graduate or professional study with the department advisor and Career Services.

If considering graduate or professional study, take the appropriate examination.